

YOU'RE INVITED!

We live in a disruptive world! And the new norm is “business as unusual”. With the advent of new technology, new possibilities exist that were only a dream a few years ago. What are some of the new possibilities and what does this mean for HR?

One of the disrupters in today’s business world is Pinsight™ that uses big data, algorithms, technology and human assessors to deliver cost-effective, information-rich assessments that link behavior directly to business strategies. Martin Lanik from Denver in the USA, the developer and CEO of Pinsight™ will be in South Africa again in April 2017. During the LEMASA Business Breakfast, he will share with us how to use analytics to align talent to business strategy.

In addition, Terry Meyer, director at Leadership SA, will lead a discussion on HR: Next generation? During the discussion, we will explore the tipping point at which HR finds itself and push the boundaries of some current assumptions underpinning the function.

We have pleasure in inviting you to the Business Breakfast.

The details of the breakfast are as follows:

Date: 11 April 2017
